

HYPERDIMENSION
NEPTUNIA™

CONTENTS

Gamindustri is composed of four nations, each under the rule of a goddess (CPU) who protects the land with energy derived from their faith. However, since a syndicate that worships the criminal deity Arfoire counted an all-out assault on Gamindustri, every nation has been put in grave danger. They currently struggle to survive this mayhem, even while protected by their guardian deities.

CELESTIA

Celestia is the world above the human world and also where the goddesses live. In Celestia, the goddesses never get hungry or tired meaning they are more than likely to be able to stay in their goddess form all the time while here which would also explain why they were able to fight for so many years without stopping. From what is seen of Celestia, it seems to have a typical heaven theme in its architecture and stained glass windows. From its appearance in Hyperdimension Neptunia, Celestia seems to be surrounded by castle-like structures that are styled in neo-Gothic architecture.

Arfoire

Arfoire takes on a witch-like appearance. She has very pale skin, almost appearing to be a pale light purple. Her hair is also a light shade of purple, being styled in a short haircut with one long bang to the side. Her apparel consists of a black witch hat with thorns circling it with two different shaded purple flowers on them, and feathers sticking off to the side. Her outfit itself is a black one piece with purple stripes along the cuffs and torso area. Arfoire is a very intelligent and clever person. She knows exactly what she wants and what she needs to do to get just that. Arfoire is able to easily manipulate just about everyone to achieve her goals as shown when she convinced the goddesses to fight each other for the title of "True Goddess" in Celestia while she sent monsters to the world below to weaken the amount of faith they received therefore making them weaker. Arfoire also serves as a form of comic relief at times when she is angered or shock by something unbelievable or stupid, causing her to say funny things before going back to being serious. Being the one who had helped create the goddesses along with Histoire, parts of her personality are inside the goddesses as well. Blanc sometimes says the opposite of what she means and if you harass her long enough she may just give in to you. Neptune has an unshakable determination to achieve anything she strives for and won't let anything stop her. Noire has a strong desire to be the perfect goddess. All of these the traits can easily be applied to Arfoire. She can also be somewhat of a sore loser as well and doesn't accept her defeat even if the tables are obviously turned against her. In her true form, her skin is a normal light shade, her hair is white, and her eyes are blue. Her outfit is reminiscent of her witch costume, however, it is less revealing. The top layer consists of black corset with matching detached sleeves that have blue squares outlining the circumference of the upper arm. Under the corset, she wears a dress that is blue on the torso area but becomes white after.

PLANEPTUNE

The land of Purple Progress

Planeptune is the land blessed with the CPU Purple Heart's protection. When she cannot be there to run it, Histoire takes her stead. Despite its advanced technology and civilization, it is the land most ravaged by monsters. Some believe their goddess was once defeated by an overlord, creating a rift in Planeptune's protection and causing an increase in monster attacks. To add credence to these beliefs, the CPU Purple Heart has not been seen by her people in over three years.

Neptune

Out of the four main Goddesses, Neptune is the most careless and carefree. She'll jump head first into any situation dangerous or not, and does not bother to think about the possible consequences that await her. Several characters (including her own friends) see Neptune as being downright stupid and somewhat insane, due to coming off clueless, airheaded, and with a tendency of asking random questions or getting shocking ideas and theories. As Purple Heart, Neptune turns very serious and loses her ditzy attitude and friendly disposition at first. Showing a more confident, mature, prideful self instead. Unlike most, her voice noticeably deepens significantly. She loves a good fight and does not give up until winning. She feels superior to the rest, due to being the strongest in terms of sheer power, making a single hit damage up to 2000 points. The others would have to power up just to make a special attack match that very amount.

Histoire

Histoire's personality is very mature and serious. She does not play around and is very focused on her work as an Oracle. She has to frequently nag Neptune to do her duties as Console Patron Unit (CPU) and will go so far as to yell to ensure she gets her point across. While she is very hardworking, it sometimes takes her a while to provide people with the information they seek (3 hours, 3 days, etc.).

Nepgear

In contrast to Neptune's hyper active and energetic behavior, Nepgear is a very shy girl who will over-apologize for even the tiniest of things. She is also very mature and takes her responsibilities as a CPU Candidate quite seriously; this is another trait that tends to separate her from her sister's more lackadaisical approach towards her job. She's somewhat timid when it comes to things and people but friendly otherwise. Once she has made a friend, no matter what they think of her later she will hold them closely, such as when Uni angrily left and began to hate Nepgear upon finding out that Nepgear fled and left their sisters behind.

IF

At first, IF shows to be headstrong and serious. She always focuses on everything important and does not like to do unnecessary things if they do not provide anything useful or achieve anything for herself or the group. As a result, she's usually dragged into doing things she normally would rather pass over or ignore. But may give into, if people nag her enough about it. While normally serious, she does have a sense of humor. But it's usually dry and gives her a relaxed atmosphere until frustrated or ticked off.

Compa

A sweetie, Compa is a very dependable and usually a non-greedy or rude friend. She helps those she is close to and cares for, along with the monsters or villains if sick or injured. She even had tea with a monster while Uni and Nepgear were arguing. But when pushed too far she can really let down on someone and act assertively. She has also showed a surprisingly dark side in one of the games by mentioning using a needle to push air into someone to shut them up.

LASTATION

The land of Black Regality

Lastation is guarded by the goddess Black Heart. For some people, they call it "The Land of Black Regality" or "steam punk" among other things. In terms of theme, it can be said that Lastation is the darkest of the four landmasses run by the Hearts. It is also called the Heart of Gamindustri due to being surrounded by the other three nations in MK2.

Noire

Noire is known as the ideal Goddess. She is very polite and generally respectful to everyone and puts her entire being into everything she does. However, she comes off as hard-headed due to only wanting to do things alone and without others, refusing their aid unless she has no choice. She only wants to bring improvement for the better, but she tries too hard and ends up either letting her efforts go to waste or simply making herself ill. This is when she will go to Gust for something to help with whatever is ailing her. As Black Heart, Noire goes from being a polite and calm tempered girl to a very tough and competitive one who openly states rude or sarcastic comments, usually with a small smirk. Mysterious and fought several times before she joins the party, Black Heart is very aggressive towards Neptune and holds a strong grudge against her or rather Purple Heart.

Kei Jinguji

Kei is a very dedicated and hardworking individual who always keeps her nation and her goddess' best interests in mind no matter the situation. While she seems initially seems manipulative, only caring about work and profit, she is shown to have caring aspects about her as well.

Uni

While she and her sister look nearly identical, Uni is a lot friendlier and perky in comparison. Comparing her relationship with Nepgear, it's a lot better than Neptune and Noire's at first. Much like her sister, however, she is a tsundere and says things like "I guess I'll let you...". It's mentioned she does not like to be girly, meaning Uni may have tomboy traits which can be shown during her last Chirper event she has a hobby of collecting guns and in another event where she rather prefers to play at an arcade with Nepgear than do thing a normal teenage girl would do. She eventually gives in however, upon rescuing Noire and after Noire later comments on how strong she's gotten Uni begins to cry in joy much to her sister's surprise. Uni is also self-conscious of her appearance shown when Nepgear asks about her breasts when she transforms for Uni to angrily deny the topic and say it's now off-limits. She also is highly jealous and shocked when she finds out her underwear was sold for the least price in an auction by Gust who was selling the CPU Candidates items.

Chian

Being the owner of a factory and working two jobs, Chian is a self-sufficient woman, but she has been high-strung since taking over the factory. She has developed a dislike for Avenir due to its growing monopolization over Lastation. She is strong-willed, and she aims to show Avenir off even when the Technology Expo is supposedly cancelled. She has blue hair the same color of Nisa's and worn with a pair of goggles. While her eyes are bright gold and she has a bandage patch on the left cheek. Her outfit consists of a deep pink jacket with multiple pockets and buttons, a black tube top, and a white scarf.

Chevre

A man in a shop who knows about Chian's background story. He lives in Lastation. He is a pudgy male who wears a hat.

Ganache

Ganache is a very well-groomed man with a neat appearance. He has brown hair, brown eyes, light skin, and is also dressed in a suit. At first glance, Ganache appears to be an overall decent person and speaks in a very friendly tone. In reality, he is both deceiving and manipulative.

Singe

At first glance it would seem as though Singe is hard-hearted and rude with a hatred for humans due to his stated love for the accuracy and perfection of machines. However, that may not be the case due to Chian stating that in truth, the reason why Singe does not trust products developed by humans and not machines is because he is afraid of people being hurt by one his products. With that said it would seem that Singe is more caring for humans than he is perceived.

LOWEE

The land of White Serenity

Lowee is a landmass filled with snow and has a cold climate. The land is surrounded by snowy mountains. The theme colors of its surrounding is mostly white and any color with a light hue, and its land gives a serene vibe, hence its nickname, "The Land of White Serenity."

Blanc

A quiet and introverted girl, Blanc may seem to be lifeless and apathetic in comparison to others (with Neptune once comparing her to a doll). She enjoys simple hobbies such as reading during her spare time and writing, something she is overly passionate about and dreams of one day mastering as an author. However, unbeknownst to herself, she isn't very good at it and everyone struggles to be honest with her. While she cares deeply for her little sisters, they anger her (perhaps not as much as others) and most of her stress comes from not knowing how to act around them. As well as showing her softer side to others. White Heart is Blanc's HDD form. Known for being the most violent of the four goddesses with a temper to match, she seems the least changed between forms in terms of personality, other than the fact she gets much angrier, quicker. White Heart's appearance indicates she may be the youngest of the four, considering her physique remains practically unchanged.

Mina Nishizawa

By default, Mina is a very kind and mature woman. She is shown to be very intellectual due to her knowledge which she obtains from her frequent reading. Mina is also shown to be very good with children, being able to calm down Rom and Ram better than Blanc can. Despite her usual nice demeanor she can also be very frightening if the situation requires it.

Rom

Out of the two, Rom looks the most like Blanc, even though she still love pulling pranks with Ram. She wears a blue overcoat with white puffballs, a pink handbag and a ribbon, and a white and blue hat to match with a pink rectangle in the center. Her leg-wear consists of white tights and shoes that match her dress in design. She has shoulder-length brown hair and steel blue eyes, much like her older sister. Rom seems to be very quiet and possibly even shy in comparison, and doesn't say much. Rom sometimes seems upset or nervous by how Ram acts or what she does, but otherwise she lets Ram do as she pleases with her. Though Rom has also shown signs of exerting how own free will.

Ram

Ram's appearance is almost exactly the same as Rom. The only difference between them is that Ram wears a pink and white overcoat instead of a blue and white one along with a matching hat and shoes. Her handbag is also blue to correspond with Rom's pink handbag. Another thing, is that Ram's hair is longer than Rom's. Ram is the one most like Blanc in terms of personality. She is usually seen smiling or smirking and likes to touch or 'get playful' with Rom and could be considered the dominant of the two twins. She may also have an attitude or a short fuse.

Financier

Financier is a fair skinned girl with bright brown eyes. Her sandy-blonde hair is about chest length and worn with a white frilled headband and two big hair clips, one being dark brown and the other light. She wears a red maid uniform with a white apron and a dark brown bow at her neck with a square in the center. Financier is a friendly young woman who speaks in a cheerful tone. It can be said that she is even a little bit playful in a sense. She is hardworking and does her best to keep Blanc happy, however at times when Blanc is being unreasonable, she can convince her to do things she would otherwise not.

Gust

While Gust is an overall good person she is also a cut-throat business entrepreneur who is also looking for a way to make a profit off of others. She will often do things for people, making it seem like it's nothing more than a favor and then charge them afterwards. Despite supposedly making straight Cs in alchemy school, she is rather intelligent and cunning. On her head she wears a large hat that appears to have bunny ears along with giant large white gloves to match. Gust appears to be nothing but a child in terms of height and overall appearance. She is short with brown eyes and medium length brown hair.

LEANBOX

The land of Green Pastures

Leanbox is the land blessed with the CPU Green Heart's protection. It once suffered from endless skirmishes, but peace was restored since the establishment of the Basilicom run directly by their goddess. On the other hand, because of its rough history, the Basilicom has become very strict at enforcing rules.

Vert

Vert is considered to be the most mature of the group, though perhaps tying with Noire, who does twice as much work. She is known to be smart, and usually very calm and polite but one of the most immature members of the group, such as not really knowing anything much outside of her own landmass. She also isn't nearly as strong as she sees herself, but she does consider her people's needs and keeping peace a top priority, when not playing the latest RPG. Vert, as Green Heart, is noticeably different in personality, much like the others. She is very arrogant and stubborn, filled with pride when it involves her breasts which she uses to provoke White Heart consistently. Green Heart enjoys mocking others by using a sly wit and teasing. But despite this, she still cares for her people and treasures them deeply.

Chika Hakozaiki

Chika, in a word, is obsessed. She is obsessed with Vert and only Vert. No matter what it is, she will do anything for Vert. However, this can result in the progress of her endlessly stalking Vert. She cares about Vert more than anyone in the world. She is shown to be rather playful and energetic, but can also take up a serious role when necessary.

Yvoire

Yvoire is the Archbishop of Leanbox behind the Parliament Revolt and committed crimes, such as attempting to use IF to betray Neptune by poisoning her. In the end he did it himself and was eventually manipulated by the Evangelist/Conversation. Yvoire is a serious man who claims that everything he does are for the best interests of Green Heart. He takes his job and his own ambitions very seriously and if he can't get someone to do the dirty work for him then he'll do it himself.

Cave

Cave has a very calm and collected personality, similar to Purple Heart, Neptune's goddess form. She speaks in such a proper manner that it's almost robotic in a sense. She is honest with herself, and also to the others. Despite how aloof she may seem most of the time, she can attempt to be playful and is shown to be caring towards those she considers to be her good friends.

5pb.

5pb. is a very timid and shy girl. She is awkward around others and is very soft spoken and suffers from confidence issues. However, onstage, she becomes an entirely different person. Her insecurities and shyness are non-existent, almost as if she is a different person entirely. However, when she's not performing, she reverts back to her usual timid self.
